

October 2013

Natural gas is the number one choice for home heating in North America.* This heating season make sure natural gas is at the heart of your home.

- If you're using another energy source for heating, make a change to reliable, clean-burning natural gas. It's affordable and circulates quickly, without the damp, cool draftiness of an electric heat pump.
- If you need to upgrade or replace an older system, new energy efficient natural gas systems are up to 98% efficient.* Save even more with manufacturer rebates and the 2013 Federal tax credit on natural gas furnaces.
- If you're already enjoying the benefits of natural gas heating, be sure to have a licensed heating contractor inspect your system. A properly maintained system will provide many years of reliable operation.

Looking for energy saving tips?

Here are some ways you can save energy and snuggle up to savings:

- Change filters regularly. Equipment works more efficiently when filters aren't clogged or dirty.
- During the winter months, set your thermostat between 65° and 68°F and lower the setting at night, health permitting.
- Weatherize your house by making sure insulation, weather stripping, and attic ventilation are adequate.
- Have a licensed professional inspect your furnace for the season.
