

Natural Gas Cooking - A Green Thing

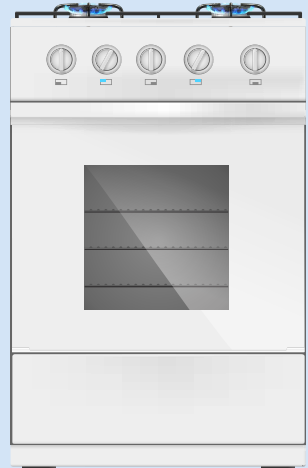

Did you know that natural gas can add some “greens” to your kitchen?

Cooking with natural gas is less expensive than electric and is the perfect way to add some “greens” to your diet. It’s an affordable way to prepare healthy meals or bake a favorite treat, while leaving some green in your wallet.

Natural gas ranges, cooktops, and ovens offer instant on/off capability, even heat, and precise temperature control, leaving cooks who don’t use natural gas green with envy.

And, using natural gas in your home reduces greenhouse gas emissions,* leaving behind a smaller footprint.

COOKING TIPS:

- Select pots and pans that fit your burners.
- Cover pots when cooking.
- Pre-heat the oven only when necessary.
- Avoid opening the oven door while in use.
- Keep oven and burners clean.
